CANNED EGGS ON THE MARKET

Armour & Co. have completed arrangements for canning in the business of separating the whites and yolks of eggs, canning them separately, and freezing them. The Armours are deep in the egg business, and experiments show that there will be a big demand for the new canned product.

As the eggs are canned at present some thirty dozen eggs are put up in a 2 gallon can. When a baker uses thirty or forty dozen eggs in a day it takes time to break the eggs and separate them under the old plan. The new venture promises to be a money saver for the large handlers of eggs—Cold Storage Ice Magazine.

CONGRESSIONAL BARGAINS

The defeat of the river and harbor bill by the thirteen hour speech of Senator Carter will have a more far-reaching effect than merely to defeat that particular measure. It may become a memorable speech and mark an era in parliamentary history; and it may call the attention of the country more sharply to the corrupt nature of congressional bargains. We do not recall the exact amount carried by the bill, but it was many millions appropriated for many objects—some of them necessary, some unnecessary, some reasonable, some corrupt jobs of several kinds—to re-elect an incompetent Representative, to feed a hungry lobby to pay a political debt. The barrel was full of pork—to use a common congressional phrase. The bill passed the House after a very bitter and at times a seemingly doubtful fight. Of course the bill was in any real danger of defeat. They wanted and did not get what they wanted united with those who were only opposed to the bill and the combination was temporarily in the majority, but before the test came, the fragility of the pork was too evident. The bill was amended in the Senate and the House non-concurred in the amendments and the bill was sent to the Conference Committee and hung up and put behind the army appropriation bill onto which was tacked the Cuban and Philippine amendments, and when the filibuster in the Senate against those amendments became serious and dangerous; it was the time for the river and harbor bill to come to a vote until the army bill was out of the way, and the filibuster died away as calmly as an April breeze at Hampton Roads and the path of the army bill was made as smooth and pleasant as the stilliest bay on a summer afternoon. To those who were reduced or seduced to permit the army bill to come to a vote the defeat of the harbor bill must have been extremely disappointing and filled their righteous souls with pious indignation at the apparent fraud shown them. But they were not the victims of that deceit. Those who whispered the sweet story of the speedy passage of the bill were in earnest and honest in their purpose to pass the bill; they had pork and much of it in that barrel; that money was to be expended under the Republic can be Secretary of War and their political debts were being paid by it. The defeat was more bitter and more exasperating to them than to the Democrats.

The defeat was caused by the refusal to insert a larger and more expensive job in the bill, and the story of that matter is full of interest and romance—if we could but tell it as it ought to be told. There are but twelve hundred millions of acres of what are known as "arid lands." These lands are scattered through some half dozen or more Western states and territories. They are almost valueless now; they are, however, wonderfully fertile when irrigated. The most productive land in the world, except possibly in the valley of the Nile, are certain irrigated lands in Arizona. The headwaters of the rivers which have their sources in the eastern slopes of the Rocky mountain range furnish the required reservoirs—unless artesian wells can be economically drilled, and they who obtain possession of the land upon which the reservoirs and canals must be constructed can exact large sums from the owners of the remaining twelve hundred millions of acres. It can be seen at a glance the almost limitless wealth obtainable by those who can take up the sites and then get Congress to construct the reservoirs and canals; and those who can obtain the lands most cheaply capable of irrigation.

Mr. R. T. Tyler is having the Powell tract remodeled and modernized, new iron front, etc. Morris & Phillips are to occupy the Commercial Hotel part and the whole upper story, and Mr. Eaker remains at his present stand, Morris & Phillips, expect to move about April 1st.

ARE YOU LEGALLY MARRIED?

A Circuit Judge Decides that Ministers Cannot Perform the Ceremony.
The fact that in a recent divorce case Judge Hodge of Newport, decided that only ministers having special authority from county judges could legally perform the ceremony has caused a great amount of comment in Kentucky, and thousands of couples have been earnestly inquiring as to whether they are married or not.
In the case mentioned Judge Hodge decided that the woman could not sue for divorce, as the marriage was performed by the clergyman who never received the authority from county judge and she was never married.
This ruling is considered to be an error by many lawyers who have been questioned on the matter and Judge Gregory of the Jefferson county court, is also opposed to Judge Hodge's opinion.
Judge Gregory holds that section 2, 102 of the Kentucky statute, which settles the question. Section 2102 provides that if the contracting parties really believe that the person performing the marriage is entitled to do so, and take the matter in good faith the marriage is legal.

A Good Cough Medicine For Children.

"I have a testimony to recommend 'Chamberlain's Cough Remedy,' says E. P. Moran, a well known popular doctor of Petersburg, Va. 'We have given it to our children when troubled with bad coughs, also whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It was recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine in the market, and it is a superior or better than any other.'"

Here is an interesting subject for discussion by the village debating society. The Medical Record says that in a small town in Warren county Ill., two brothers were killed by lightning on the night of Dec. 10, 1900. The other a few minutes after 12 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 1, 1901. The neighbors are quarreling as to what day shall be celebrated by the two boys as a common holiday, or whether the children, being born on different days, in different days, in different months, years, and even centuries, may be regarded as twins or more as brothers.

NEW MODE OF TRAVEL.

Marshall Underwood, of this county, is the author of a new and cheap mode of travel. His plan is, if the earth revolves from west to east, as the geophysicists claim, and you would like to get to California, Asia, or any other place, all you would have to do would be to get in a balloon go up above the mountains, get the earth revolve under you and in three hours come down on the Pacific Asia. His argument is that if you want to go to any place just go up in a balloon and wait till the planet revolves under you. This would be a very cheap mode of travel and would be a rebirth of reason. Birdwell State.

COMMITTEE TAKES ACTION

IN THE LEGISLATIVE MUDDLE
AND CALLS A-PRIMA.

Election to Take Place on August 6th, and All Good Democrats Invited to Participate.

Pursuant to a call the following precinct committees of Hickman and Fulton counties met in Clinton, to consider the situation as to a Democratic nominee for Representative for the two counties. S. D. Griffee, Chairman of Hickman County Committee, called the meeting to order, and Mr. J. J. Craig was elected chairman.

North Columbus, R. L. Jackson; South Columbus, W. J. Kerr; East Clinton, J. F. Vaughan; West Clinton, W. J. Jackson; Hagg, W. E. Hagg; Mow-cow, S. D. Griffee; Oakton, J. J. Craig; Romney, J. J. Russell; Beunite, not represented; Polo, not represented; Beederton, not represented; Spring Hill, John C. Wiley; East Hickman, not represented; West Hickman, vacant; East Fulton, not represented; West Fulton, not represented; Cayce, Dr. J. W. Naylor; Leighton, not represented; New-farm Ridge, not represented; Mad-dison, not represented.

The chairman announced a majority present and ready for business.

The committee declared that there was no nominee at the Fulton Convention held Feb. 4.

They declared that a majority of the Legislative Committee was present and acting, and that the rules of the State Committee gave them authority to determine contests, and that such findings are final and binding.

They say that the State Committee ordered primary election in each precinct for the election of precinct committee-men to be held November 3, 1901, that such an election was held in Cayce, Fredrick and that J. J. Naylor was elected by the people, and his opponent defeated. That the Cayce delegation at the Fulton convention was misled by this regularly elected committee-men, he being the only one elected from Fulton county, and that said delegation vote was refused by the acting chairman of the Legislative District, who not being a member of the County or District Committee had no right to vote. They allege a vacancy in one and probably both Hickman precincts. And that having 11 of the 20 committee-men of the two counties they are the Legislative Committee. And therefore, in case of these facts, and others they declare that no one received the nomination in regular order at the Fulton convention, and issues a call for a primary as follows:

Resolved first, That a primary election be held by the Democrats of the Legislative district composed of Fulton and Hickman counties, Kentucky, on Monday, August 6, 1901, between the hours of 7 a. m. and 6 p. m. to select a Democratic nominee for the Legislature to be placed on the Democratic ticket at the next November election.

Second, That the vote in said primary election to be by secret ballot, and the name of each candidate be printed on each ballot and all ballots alike in color and size, and that the voter shall express his choice by making a cross (x) mark with pen, pencil or stencil to the right of the name of the candidate for whom he desires to vote. The clerk of the election shall record the name of the voter in a book provided for the purpose, and the ballots shall be deposited in a box provided for the purpose.

Third, All qualified voters who voted for Bryan electors and for Beckham at the November election, 1900, and all young men who have attained the age of 21 years, or will attain by November election, and subscribe to the principles of Democracy and all who desire to affiliate with the Democratic party in the future and agree to support Democratic nominees shall be entitled to vote in said primary election at their regular voting places in said counties.

Fourth, The candidates seeking the nomination in this primary may select one man in each precinct as an officer of the election. The officers so selected to appoint one of their members clerk, judge and sheriff, provided that if there is no more than two the two can appoint the third. It is further provided that if there is more than three candidates to make selections, all that are selected over and above the necessary number may act as judge or inspector.

Fifth, It shall be the duty of the election officers to count the result and issue certificate to all the officers, and inspectors certifying how the vote was cast. It will be the duty of the clerk of the election to deliver to the chairman of the county committee on Tuesday following at a convenient place to be designated, later by said chairman, the poll book and a certificate of the result in his precinct, who will on Wednesday following deliver to the Legislative Committee the certificate and poll book given them. The Legislative Committee to assemble at the court house in Clinton, Ky., on Wednesday, August 7, 1901, canvass the returns, declare the nominee and issue certificate to same.

Sixth, It is further ordered that the candidates seeking nomination pay the necessary expenses of this primary, viz: the printing of ballots, supplying of poll books; and that they shall let their candidacy be known at least one month before the day fixed for said primary.

Seventh, This primary is not held under the primary election law of this State, but according to Democratic usage.

PAUCA'S NEW PAPER

It is reported that there is to be a new newspaper in Paducah. It will be a daily, have a modern equipment in every respect and will probably be issued before Easter. It is to be Democratic in politics, and its reports are true some of Paducah's most prominent Democrats will be interested in it. It is understood Mr. Urey Woodson is interested in the paper.

The Mississippi Journal of Jackson, gives the following good advice: "Never admit defeat or poverty, though you seem to be down, and have not a cent. Stoutly assert your divine right to be a man, to hold your head up and look the world in the face; step bravely to the front and the world will make way for you. No one will insist upon you have any. Hold firmly the conviction that you possess the qualities requisite for success. Never allow yourself to be a traitor to your own cause by undermining your self-confidence."
